MARS ATTACKS!

FADE IN:

EXT. FARMHOUSE (KENTUCKY) - DUSK

A farmhouse (with porch, garden and outbuildings) overlooks a two-lane road. Across the road is a wide empty field -- deep in shadow. All is quiet.

SUPERIMPOSE CAPTION: "4 MILES OUTSIDE LOCKJAW, KENTUCKY. TUESDAY, MAY 9 - 6:57 P.M."

The sound of a TRACTOR is heard approaching. An old tractor comes INTO VIEW, driven by an elderly HILLBILLY FARMER.

MR. LEE, a Filipino in his late 40s, comes out of a side door of the farmhouse. He is carrying garbage.

He goes down the path to the trash cans next to the mailbox. He waves to the Hillbilly, approaching on the tractor.

The Hillbilly comes to a stop. He frowns and wrinkles his nose.

HILLBILLY
Howdy, Mister Lee. What is this? Filipino New Years?

MR. LEE
No. Why you say that?

HILLBILLY
'Cause you're cooking up a feast. You can smell it all the way from the interstate. What is it -- a barbecue?

Mr. Lee sniffs. He can smell it too.

MR. LEE
Oh yes. (mystified)
But it's not coming from here...

The THUNDEROUS ROAR of a thousand head of STAMPEDING CATTLE becomes audible in the distance.

HILLBILLY
What's that noise?

The RUMBLING ROAR GETS CLOSER. It's coming from behind the house. The sound becomes DEAFENING. The ground shakes.

CONTINUED:

MRS. LEE, her two children and dog run out of the house. The children are screaming. They join Mr. Lee at the tractor.

HILLBILLY

Oh my Lord!

A herd of burning cows appear from behind the house and stampede across the garden -- like a river of flame. Mrs. Lee pulls her children up on to the tractor.

The cattle gallop past them and away across the wide field -- into the night.

Then there's a strange THROBBING NOISE.

In the distance, rising through the sky, is a flying saucer! The flying saucer shoots straight up at hyper-speed. For a moment it is a silver dot in the nightsky... then it is gone.

START OPENING CREDITS.

EXT. PLANET EARTH AND SPACE

The curve of the Earth BISECTS the SCREEN. We can see part of the continental United States -- much of it obscured by cloud-cover. A tiny silver dot appears through the stratosphere. The silver dot travels across interplanetary space. Then the silver dot shoots out a flare.

EXT. SURFACE OF MARS

A crater opens up and a flying saucer rises out of it. Further off, another crater opens and a second flying saucer emerges. Then, more craters open and more saucers rise out of them. A hundred flying saucers ascend through the thin Martian atmosphere -- and enter the blackness of space.

SERIES OF SHOTS OF MARTIAN ARMADA as it journeys through space. The planet Earth comes INTO VIEW.

END OPENING CREDITS.
EXT. WHITE HOUSE - DAY

SUPERIMPOSE CAPTION: "WASHINGTON, D.C. - MAY 10 - 11.25 A.M."

INT. WHITE HOUSE - OVAL OFFICE - DAY

JAMES DALE -- the President of the United States, examines b&w photographs of the Martian fleet.

Watching him are PROFESSOR DONALD KESSLER -- a know-it-all British scientist. GENERAL DECKER, a four-star military hawk. GENERAL CASEY, a humanistic African-American general and JERRY ROSS -- a younger, eager and faintly sleazy press secretary.

PRESIDENT
What's your take on this, Jerry?

JERRY
The people are gonna love it! Our only decision is whether to ambush the six o'clock news, or hold out for primetime.

DECKER
Screw the press. This situation is on a need-to-know. We gotta keep this top secret and go immediately to Defcon Four.

JERRY
Mister President -- we can't sit on this!

PRESIDENT
General Casey, what's your opinion?

CASEY
Well, sir, do we know they're hostile?

DECKER
They've got thousands of warships circling the planet!

CASEY
Do we know they're warships?

PRESIDENT
Professor, what do we know about them?

KESSLER
We know they're extremely advanced technologically -- which suggests, very strongly, that they're peaceful. An advanced civilization is, by definition, not barbaric. This is a great day Mister President. I, and all my colleagues, are extremely excited.

PRESIDENT
Good. Extra-terrestrial life! You're right, Jerry, the people are gonna love it. This is a momentous occasion. It's a day we've all dreamed of since the caveman first stared up into the night sky and wondered 'Am I alone?'

DECKER
Mister President...

PRESIDENT
(ignores General Decker)
What do you say we go all -- media? ... and I'll wear my blue Cerruti suit. And, Jerry, I'll need a good speech. Statesman-like. Historical -- but warm, neighborly. Abraham Lincoln meets Leave It To Beaver -- you know the kind of thing.

JERRY Yessir.

INT. WHITE HOUSE - STATEROOM - DAY

Looking critically at the room is FIRST LADY, MARSHA DALE. She is accompanied by a MALE DECORATOR and female assistant and trailed by her sullen, alienated, pretty 17-year-old daughter, TAFFY.

Swatches of different furnishing fabrics have been thrown over the furniture.

DECORATOR
I thought perhaps the watered silk?

FIRST LADY
Hmm, not bad.
CONTINUED:

DECORATOR
And this week it's on sale.

FIRST LADY
I hardly think I need worry about that. My husband is the leader of the Free World. No, it's not right -- but it might be a way to salvage the Roosevelt Room. Taffy, what do you think?

TAFFY
Why don't you leave the Roosevelt Room the way the Roosevelt's wanted it?

FIRST LADY
Because Eleanor Roosevelt was too fond of chintz -- that's why.

TAFFY
(exasperated)
Mother -- this is not your house!

FIRST LADY
Taffy, if you're going to be a pest, I'm just going to have to ignore you!

She turns her back on Taffy.

EXT. LAS VEGAS - DAY

Las Vegas. We can see the Luxor, the Excalibur, the MGM Grand... and Caesar's Palace.

SUPERIMPOSE CAPTION: "LAS VEGAS, NEVADA - TUESDAY, MAY 10 - 4:30 P.M.

INT. CAESAR'S PALACE HOTEL AND CASINO (LAS VEGAS) - DAY

A camera flashes. BYRON WILLIAMS, 55, is a big, gentlemanly African-American -- and the ex-heavyweight boxing champion of the world. He is dressed as a gladiator and works as the official greeter at Caesar's Palace Hotel. He is having his picture taken with three elderly NUNS. The Nuns are very excited.

NUN #1
Thank you, thank you!

CONTINUED:

NUN #2
I saw you fight Sonny Liston in '69!

BYRON
(chuckles)
Really? Were you a nun back then?

NUN #2
Oh yes! We've always been fight fans -- haven't we, sisters?

NUNS #1 and #3
Oh yes!

P.A. LOUDSPEAKER (V.O.)
Byron Williams, telephone. Byron Williams.

BYRON
That's me. Would you excuse me, ladies?

He bows politely. The Nuns nod and smile.

INT. CAESAR'S PALACE CASINO - DAY

Byron walks through the busy casino. At the slots, an ELDERLY SLOTS LADY plays three machines, clutching a plastic bucket of nickels. ART LAND and his wife, BARBARA, walk INTO FRAME.

ART
Hey, Byron, how's it going?

BYRON
Good Art, thanks. Hey Barbara.

BARBARA
Hi.

Art is a hard-edged moneyman working on the biggest deal of his life. Barbara, his sexy, ex-model, trophy-wife is a recovering alcoholic who has recently embraced all things "New Age."

Byron goes to a blinking house phone. A CASINO MANAGER (Mr. Bava) is watching him suspiciously. Byron picks up the phone.

BYRON
Yeah? Oh, Louise, what's up?
INT. TELEPHONE EXCHANGE (WASHINGTON) - DAY

A big room divided into many small cubicles in which telephone operators, wearing headsets, answer 411 calls. In one of the cubicles is LOUISE WILLIAMS, a warm, sympathetic African-American woman in her forties. She is upset. On her workstation is a framed photograph of her twin sons Cedric and Neville (16).

LOUISE
I'm sorry to call you at work, but I'm losing my mind. The boys haven't been back for two nights and I don't know where they are! The teacher says they weren't in school today -- what am I gonna do?

INTERCUT.

BYRON
Listen, sweetie, you're doing the best you can. They're at that age. But if I was around, this wouldn't happen. Let me come back. Let me come back, Louise. I've changed.

LOUISE
I don't know, Byron. A leopard don't change its spots.

BYRON
This one has.

LOUISE
(she wants to believe him)
I wish I could believe it.

The casino manager stares ferociously at Byron.

BYRON
Louise, the Casino manager's giving me the hairy eyeball. I better go. I'll call you later, okay? You still cool with me coming to Washington?

LOUISE
Yeah, sure -- course I am. Take care, honey. 'Bye.

She presses a button on her console, terminating the call, and sighs.

CLOSEUP PHOTOS of Cedric and Neville.
EXT. ROOF OF DERELICT APARTMENT BUILDING (EAST WASHINGTON) - DAY

CEDRIC is aiming an old pistol. He pulls the trigger. BLAM! A tin can flies off the low parapet wall. There are two other cans next to it.

CEDRIC
And that, Neville, is how it's done. Now you try.

He gives the pistol to Neville. They're both dressed in "gangstah" fashions.

CEDRIC
Aim dead center, then move a touch down and to the left -- cause the gun don't shoot straight.

Cedric watches as Neville grips the gun with both hands.

CEDRIC
(approvingly)
You got it. But don't hold your breath. Breathe easy. And squeeze the trigger real gentle.

BLAM! Neville FIRES. The next can flies off the wall.

CEDRIC
(delighted)
Yay! Good shooting bro!

They low-five.

INT. CAESAR'S PALACE BAR - NIGHT

Sitting at a booth are Art and Barbara. He drinks a Scotch.

BARBARA
Do you have to drink in front of me?

ART
You're a friggin' adult. Just cope.

BARBARA
It doesn't help me that all we ever do is sit around bars.

ART
Hey, it's work, baby, okay? I'm studying the lighting, the decor, the traffic flow. Since when did you get to be such a bitch all the time? You didn't used to be. When you were dancing at my club -- remember? You were so sweet back then. Sweet Barbie Bordeaux, the best bump-and-grinder in Vegas.

BARBARA
That's when you were still a stand-up guy. If I'd known you were gonna turn into this... crook, I never would have married you.

ART
I'm not a crook. I'm ambitious -- is that a crime? Is that a crime to be ambitious? Jesus! And if you think you can make money without being crooked in this town, you don't know shit about business. And I'm doing it for us. And now we're really starting to make it. With this new hotel, we're gonna make it big. No more loansharks, no more bingo concessions. The Galaxy is gonna be the best hotel in Vegas. The best.

BARBARA
But don't you realize what you're doing? You're destroying the Earth! All this greed -- all this money system -- we're destroying everything!

ART
Don't give me your New Age crap. I'm sick of hearing about it.
(to barkeep)
Hey, gimme another drink.

EXT. MANHATTAN (NEW YORK CITY) - DUSK
A beautiful shot of Manhattan.

SUPERIMPOSE CAPTION: "NEW YORK CITY - TUESDAY, MAY 10 - 7:50 P.M."
INT. MTV STUDIOS AND CONTROL BOOTH - SAME TIME

On a TV screen a ROCK VIDEO SCREAMS. We PULL BACK -- revealing a row of identical TVs.

In a control booth, busy technicians prepare for a live show. A large sign says: "MTV UNPLUGGED." An anxious MTV CORPORATE GUY comes INTO FRAME, his CELLULAR PHONE RINGING. He flips it open.

CORPORATE GUY
Yeah? Make it quick -- we go out live in eight minutes. What??
The actual President? What do you mean, cutting in? He can't cut in...

Across the studio is the MTV newsdesk. Working at a desktop computer is MTV reporter, NATHALIE WEST, 26. She is cute, sexy and hip. Her chihuahua dog -- Poppy -- sits on her desk. Nathalie glances over at the Corporate Guy and realizes something big is happening. She picks up the phone.

INT. CNN STUDIOS (NEW YORK) - SAME TIME

CNN -- a well-oiled, quietly humming news operation. Attractive, conceited CNN reporter JASON STONE, 32, is admiring himself up on a monitor.

JASON (V.O.)
(on TV)
'... sources at the U.N. say the economic summit went well...'

JASON
Hair's good. I like the hair.

His PHONE RINGS. He answers it, and Nathalie's voice shouts.

NATHALIE
(on phone)
Jason, it's me!

JASON
Are you wearing a bra?

NATHALIE
Shut up a second! This is big. President Dale is cutting in on 'Unplugged'!

CONTINUED:

JASON
(scoffing)
That's absurd. Why would he stoop to being on MTV?

NATHALIE
He's interrupting everybody!
They're making an emergency announcement!

Jason's feelings are hurt.

JASON
Jesus -- and you heard before us?

Suddenly a door behind Jason opens. A CNN BOSS runs in.

CNN BOSS
Everyone! Get to a monitor! The White House is going out live!

CUT TO:

TV
is full of static. Suddenly the presidential seal comes on. President Dale appears. He is trying to look relaxed: in an armchair, wearing his blue suit, in front of a roaring fire.

foundations of our modern civilization...

favorite is Kurt Cobain. Taffy is sitting on her canopy bed, holding a teddy bear, eating Cheetos.

PRESIDENT (V.O.)
(on TV)
How many of us know with absolute certainty that history is in the making? How many know the day?
How many know the hour?

TAFFY
Get to the point!

EXT. PERKINSVILLE (KANSAS) - DONUT SHOP - DAY

This is a small, white-trash town. The center of town is an intersection containing a gas station on one side and a mini-mall on the other. In the mini-mall is a donut shop.

SUPERIMPOSE CAPTION: "PERKINSVILLE, KANSAS - WEDNESDAY, MAY 10 - 5:32 P.M."
INT. DONUT SHOP - DAY

The donut shop is empty except for a ragged, dribbling, bearded HOMELESS MAN who's nursing a cold cup of coffee and reading an old newspaper. Behind the counter, a depressed HISPANIC WOMAN wiping the counter very slowly. At the back, near the sink -- surrounded by metal trays of raw donuts -- a man in his early 20s is watching an ancient b&w TV. This is RICHIE NORRIS. He is wearing a Kurt Cobain T-shirt, smoking a joint and watching President Dale on TV.

PRESIDENT (V.O.)
(on TV)
Today an extraordinary discovery was made by the Hubble Space Telescope. A much-criticized program which, I might add, has been solidly supported by this administration.

RICHIE
(stoned)
Go for it, dude!

EXT. ALLEY (WASHINGTON) - DAY

A banner is stretched across the alley which states: "This area is under police surveillance." There is also a sign, which looks like a no-parking sign, but which simply has the word: "DRUGS" -- with a diagonal line through it. IN one corner of the alley, three young African-Americans are doing a drug deal. CEDRIC and NEVILLE are sitting by some dumpsters, smoking cigarettes and listening to a GHETTO BLASTER. The PRESIDENT'S VOICE comes out of every station they try.

CEDRIC
He's taken over!

PRESIDENT (V.O.)
(on radio)
The data from the Hubble Telescope was decoded then analyzed by the most powerful computers at M.I.T. The verifications are complete. The images are undeniable. We are entering the dawn of a new era. The frame enlargements provide an astonishing sight.
INT. CAESAR'S PALACE - SPORTS HALL - DAY

People sit in rows looking up at the large TV screens -- which usually show horse racing but now all show the face of President Dale. The Casino Manager watches, standing by a poster announcing: "TOM JONES - LIVE AT CAESAR'S PALACE" -- with a photo of Tom Jones and the play-dates: "May 11-20." Cindy, the waitress, stands with a tray of drinks, watching the big screens. Next to her is Byron.

PRESIDENT (V.O.)
(on TV)
A large fleet of vehicles -- which can best be described as flying saucers. These flying saucers have emerged from the planet Mars and, at their current course and speed, will be entering Earth's orbit in approximately sixteen hours.

Everyone's jaw drops.

CINDY
Holy shit!

INT. CNN STUDIOS - DAY

The newsroom is chaos. Everybody runs around, crazed. Jason barks orders.

JASON
See if we can get patched into NASA! You, get me some man-in-the street reactions! And somebody track down Carl Sagan!

INT. MTV STUDIOS - SAME TIME

NATHALIE
We have to completely reorder the show! I want the Martians to come right after the Michael Jackson thing!

INT. CAESAR'S PALACE CASINO - DAY

Every single gambler is glued to a TV. Forgotten at the craps table is an obnoxious RUDE GAMBLER with a toupee. He holds dice in his hand.

RUDE GAMBLER
Hey! Am I the only one shooting craps?!
INT. LANDS’ VEGAS HOME - DUSK

The beautiful but sad Barbara watches TV in her lavish modern house, with its "New Age" decor -- candles, etc.

PRESIDENT (V.O.)

(on TV)

We don't know what they want -- or if they intend to contact us.
But we sincerely hope we will have the opportunity to meet with them...

Her eyes are shining. She is breathless with excitement.

BARBARA

Martians! This is great! Please come to Earth. Please! We need you!

EXT. GALAXY HOTEL AND CONSTRUCTION SITE (LAS VEGAS) - DAY

On the perimeter fence is an advertising board -- showing an artist's rendition of the completed hotel -- and the words: "Coming soon! THE GALAXY HOTEL AND CASINO. Another LandMark Hotel." Beyond it is the real hotel -- partially built -- the only completed section being its tower, crowned by a saucer-shaped restaurant.

INT. ART LAND'S VEGAS OFFICE - DAY

Art is watching TV in his unfinished office. On a table is a scale model of the hotel. A sign says: "Art Land's GALAXY HOTEL."

PRESIDENT (V.O.)

(on TV)

I feel this is the perfect summation to the Twentieth Century... a time that has seen the dropping of borders and the extending of friendship in all directions.

ART

(on the phone)

We're stalled until the new finance comes through... Soon. Don't worry, I got people coming in next week. I got investors from the Teamster's Union and Switzerland and Texas and Saudi Arabia -- everybody wants to be a part of this. So, how's my credit?
INT. WHITE HOUSE - DAY
The President addresses the cameras.

PRESIDENT
Communism has fallen, and now there is no East or West -- just us. We have become one planet. And soon we will become one solar system.

INT. WHITE HOUSE - TAFFY'S BEDROOM - NIGHT
Taffy watches TV...

PRESIDENT (V.O.)
(on TV)
It is profoundly moving to know that there is intelligent life out there.

TAFFY
Glad they got it somewhere.

PRESIDENT (V.O.)

Our lives and our world will never feel quite the same again.
(pause)
Good night and God bless you all.

The Presidential Seal appears on the TV.

EXT. STREET CORNER AND NEWSSTAND (MANHATTAN) - DAWN
Early dawn. A closed-up newsstand.

SUPERIMPOSE CAPTION: "NEW YORK - THURSDAY, MAY 11 - 5:26 A.M."

A truck goes by. A pile of tied-together newspapers lands with a thump on the sidewalk. It's The New York Times. The headline, accompanying one of the pictures of the Martian fleet, is: "EXISTENCE OF INTERPLANETARY LIFE CONFIRMED." Roar of a second truck. Whap! A second pile of newspapers lands on the sidewalk. This time it's The Post -- with the same picture on its front page -- and the headline: "MARTIANS!!!!"
INT. JASON'S APARTMENT - KITCHEN - DAY

Jason and Nathalie are having breakfast and devouring the papers. Jason reads the New York Times -- Nathalie reads The Post.

JASON
This is intense!

The PHONE RINGS. POPPY BARKS.

JASON
Hey, Poppy, shut up! Shut up!
(grabs the phone)
Jason Stone.
(beat) Uhhuh. Uhhuh.
(turns; disappointed)
It's for you.

NATHALIE
(grabs phone)
Yeah? Yeah sure. I can be at the studio at eleven. Okay, 'bye.

She hangs up and resumes reading her paper. Jason looks at her impatiently.

JASON
Yes...??

NATHALIE
They want me to go interview that professor guy from the White House.

JASON
(surprised) Kessler? Donald Kessler?

NATHALIE
Yeah, I think that was his name. You know, the scientist.

JASON
This is crazy. CNN should be getting him!

NATHALIE
I can't help it if your people are too slow.
(coos at the dog)
Isn't that right, Poppy?

Poppy seems to smile. Jason sulks.
EXT. TRAILER PARK (PERKINSVILLE) - MORNING

A small trailer park off a dirt road. Outside a battered trailer, surrounded by a yard filled with junk -- including a dusty red pickup -- is a big old refrigerator.

SUPERIMPOSE CAPTION: "PERKINSVILLE - THURSDAY, MAY 11 - 9:37 A.M."

The trailer door opens. Richie Norris comes out, opens the fridge, takes out a box of donuts and goes back into the trailer.

INT. TRAILER - CLOSE ON HANDS - MORNING

Assembling the component parts of a rifle at high speed.

BILLY-GLENN (O.S.)

Finished!

NEW ANGLE

BILLY-GLENN NORRIS, 28, (a meathead) is blindfolded and shirtless. His father, GLENN NORRIS, 52, a farm laborer, is timing him with a stop watch.

GLENN

One minute fifty-seven seconds.

Billy-Glenn pulls off his blindfold.

BILLY-GLENN

Hot damn! Didn't I tell you under two minutes?

GLENN

(proud)

You did, son.

SUE-ANN NORRIS, the mother, 48, overweight, wearing a slip, her hair in curlers, is reading a story in the Weekly World News. It features photos of burning cattle and of the Lee family. Headline: "Kentucky Fried Cattle!" Caption: "Aliens did this to my cows!"

GRANDMA NORRIS (88) sits in a corner. She is senile. Sue-Ann absently wipes the spittle from her chin.

On TV it's the news. Newscasters are full of the Martian story and showing the Hubble photographs. Billy-Glenn's army uniform is hanging on the wall. Richie stands at the door, holding the box of donuts.

CONTINUED:

RICHIE
Hey, Mom, you want a donut?

SUE-ANN
How old are they?

RICHIE
Fresh baked Monday.

SUE-ANN
Richie, that's six days ago! Okay, gimme two.

Richie passes around the box. They all take one.

RICHIE
This Martian thing is awesome, huh?

GRANDMA
(feeble-minded)
Has anyone seen my Muffy?

They ignore her.

GLENN
Your brother's gonna volunteer.

BILLY-GLENN (chewing)
Soon as I get back to the base.

RICHIE
Volunteer for what, Billy-Glenn?

BILLY-GLENN
Martian detail.

Cool.

RICHIE

GLENN
I tell ya, if any of them Martians come 'round here, I'm gonna kick their butts!

Glenn burps.

EXT. GALAXY HOTEL (LAS VEGAS) - DAY

ESTABLISHING-SHOT of the Galaxy Hotel and the construction site.
INT. ART LAND'S OFFICE - DAY

Two builders are putting up a plaster-board wall. Art is on the phone.

ART
Uhuh? Listen, pal, I was thinking Martians before there even were Martians! You see the brochure? The Galaxy is gonna be world class. 10,000 rooms, a five million dollar space ride and a whole building full of that virtual reality shit. This is gonna be the best hotel in Vegas!

EXT. GOLF COURSE (WASHINGTON) - DAY

The exclusive Georgetown Golf Course. Humorless General Decker and three fellow MILITARY BRASS are golfing.

MILITARY BRASS #1
So what'd the President say?

DECKER
(mocking)
He said 'Peace and Love.' Open the doors and let the invaders in.

MILITARY #2
George Bush would never let this happen.

DECKER
I'll be damned if I'll stand by and watch 'em piss away America.

Decker glances sideways at the goofy caddies. He gestures -- and the military guys step over. Decker lowers his voice.

DECKER
Look, without going through official channels, I want to put the reserves on alert. What do you say? Let's beef up the troops, just in case...

EXT. STREET AND GUNSHOP (WASHINGTON) - DAY

Cedric and Neville are looking in the window of a gun store.

CONTINUED:

NEVILLE
Hey, Cedric, check that .38 police special -- that's cool!

CEDRIC
Naw, naw -- the Glock -- that's way better. Semi-automatic -- fires 14 rounds. .38's only got six.

Three HOOKERS stroll by, chatting.

HOOKER #1
So would you screw a man from Mars?

HOOKER #2
Yeah -- but no kissin' on the lips.

A black limo pulls up. The girls run over, and the back window glides down.

HOOKER #1
Hey, baby, you want a date?

JERRY (O.S.)
Sounds good.

The Hooker leans in and we see Jerry in the back of the limo. He smiles.

JERRY
The stress at work is unbelievable.

INT. CAESAR'S CASINO - DAY

In the blackjack pit, Cindy takes drink orders.

CINDY
We're running a special tonight: the 'Martian.' It's creme de menthe and Bombay gin in a souvenir plastic flying saucer.

RUDE GAMBLER
Sounds terrible. Gimme a Scotch. (to a dealer)
Hey! I saw that! You trying to cheat me?!

Byron Williams walks by in his gladiator outfit. He approaches the Casino Manager.

CONTINUED:

BYRON
Mr. Bava, could we speak in private?

CASINO MANAGER
No, I gotta watch the floor. Whatdya want, Byron?

Byron pauses uncomfortably.

BYRON
Well, you know, I'm supporting a family back east...

CASINO MANAGER
I thought you were divorced.

BYRON
Well, I am -- but I'm trying to take care of them.

(pause)
Anyway, times are kind of lean... and I was wondering if I could get a raise.

CASINO MANAGER
Absolutely not. Out of the question.

Byron is taken aback.

BYRON
But, Mr. Bava... I'm an asset to this hotel. People like me...

CASINO MANAGER
(unimpressed)
Look, Byron, don't push it. I can get Leon Spinks or Buster Douglas for the same money, okay? Maybe less.

(glances at his watch)
Now you better get moving. You're on in five minutes.

The Casino Manager walks away. Byron is crestfallen.

INT. MTV STUDIO - DIRECTING BOOTH - DAY

The DIRECTOR and a TECHNICIAN sit at the control desk, observing the floor of the studio -- where a makeup person is touching up Nathalie and Kessler -- who are seated in a small, jazzy set.

DIRECTOR
(excited)
We're gonna get a helluva rating with this show!

INT. MTV STUDIO - JAZZY SET - ON NATHALIE AND KESSLER - DAY

Poppy lies in her lap.

KESSLER
So you see, Miss West, Wittgenstein was right, it all depends on the language you choose to employ. And in certain circumstances, the proposition that two and two equal five is entirely legitimate.

Nathalie finds the intellectual Kessler extremely attractive.

NATHALIE
Call me Nathalie.

Kessler finds her extremely attractive, too.

KESSLER
And you, uh, do please call me Donald. I've always admired your show...

NATHALIE
(deeply flattered)
R-really?! You like my work?

An ASSISTANT DIRECTOR signals them.

KESSLER
Yes -- very much!

ASSISTANT DIRECTOR
Coming out of commercial -- five.
Four... three, two...

The makeup person hurries off. The Assistant Director signals Nathalie. She spins perkily to camera.

NATHALIE
Welcome back. We're speaking with Professor Donald Kessler, Chairman of the American Academy of Astronautics.

(MORE)
CONTINUED:

NATHALIE (CONT'D)
Professor, isn't it weird that we sent a space probe to Mars and didn't even find anyone?

KESSLER
Not really, uh, Nathalie, because we didn't go into the canals.

INT. OVAL OFFICE - DAY
The President, the First Lady, and Rusty the dog are watching TV. ON TV: Kessler is speaking.

KESSLER (V.O.)
The Martian canals are actually canyons -- some of them over a hundred miles deep. Martian civilization has clearly developed under the surface of the planet.

INT. LOUISE WILLIAM'S APARTMENT - DAY
The apartment is cheap, but neat and clean. Louise is watching TV and drinking a cup of coffee. The door opens and Cedric and Neville shamble in -- and head for their room.

KESSLER (V.O.)
(on TV)
Their science and technology must be absolutely mind-boggling.

LOUISE
Hey, where you going? Come back here, I wanna talk to you!

Cedric and Neville look at their mother reluctantly.

KESSLER (V.O.)
(on TV)
They will have an awful lot to teach us.

Overlapping --

LOUISE
You think it's smart to cut school? Do you? Do you?

No, Mama.

CEDRIC/NEVILLE

NATHALIE (V.O.)
(on TV)
But why haven't we seen any evidence of Martians before?

KESSLER (V.O.)
(on TV)
I'm positive we have.

NATHALIE (V.O.)
(on TV)
You mean U.F.O.s?

KESSLER (V.O.)
(on TV)
Yes, exactly.

LOUISE
No, Mama, 'cause it's dumb.
You're gonna flunk. You're gonna get in trouble. You're gonna go to jail. You foolin' with guns?

CEDRIC/NEVILLE

NATHALIE (V.O.)
(on TV)
I see, so, what, in your view are some of the things the Martians can teach us, Professor?

LOUISE
You smoking crack?

CEDRIC/NEVILLE

No, Mama.

KESSLER (V.O.)
(on TV)
Quite a lot about Mars, I expect -- ha ha!

Nathalie and Kessler chuckle together and exchange sparkling glances.
INT. CNN - JASON'S OFFICE - DAY

Jason watches the TV with two other CNN reporters.

JASON
Look at that -- she's flirting with him!

Reporter #1 shrugs. "What can you do?"

INT. MTV STUDIOS - DAY (SAME TIME)

KESSLER
But, seriously, this is tremendously exciting. We're on the brink of a Copernican change -- a new Renaissance. Think of it! The knowledge, the new ideas! It's going to change everything. And we must be open to it. Embrace it! After all, we are being given a very, very big present.

Suddenly the monitor flashes and the image of Nathalie and Kessler gets distorted. The DIRECTOR freaks.

DIRECTOR
Oh, Christ! What's wrong with the picture? Go to camera two!

CREWMAN #1
(pounding a button)
I can't. It's busted!

DIRECTOR
Then go to one! Go to four!

The picture gets more distorted. Suddenly a PHONE RINGS! CREWMAN #2 grabs it, listens, then turns pale.

CREWMAN #2
It's engineering. Something's jammed our signal!

They all turn to the monitor, helpless. The pixels on the TV start changing.

INT. CNN - JASON'S OFFICE - DAY

ON TV. Bit by bit, a new image appears...

JASON
Now what?

He gets up and fiddles with the TV, trying to fix it.

REPORTER #1
Maybe it's the cable?

Jason looks around the back of the TV -- nothing. He pounds the TV with his fist. The head and shoulders of a Martian come into focus. Behind him is a large Martian flag. This is the Martian Ambassador. His head resembles a human skull -- but with an enormously swollen brain -- and vivid crimson eyeballs.

(shocked)
What's that?

JASON
Jesus!

INT. CAESAR'S PALACE - BAR - SAME TIME

Byron and Cindy are staring at the bar TV -- as are also a bartender and six tourists.

NATHALIE (V.O.)
(on TV)
This is Nathalie West. You can't see me because the picture signal is being jammed. It's coming from beyond the planet -- so we think what you're seeing is probably a Martian.

Byron's reaction is cool -- almost a statement.

BYRON
That's a Martian?

INT. WHITE HOUSE - TAFFY'S BEDROOM - DAY

Taffy is on her bed, now hung with sheets so it's like a tent. She peers out.

TAFFY
(deeply intrigued)
That's a Martian?

INT. DONUT SHOP - DAY

INT. WHITE HOUSE - SITTING ROOM - DAY

The President and the First Lady are watching TV. Their pet GOLDEN RETRIEVER, Rusty, GROWLS at the screen.

FIRST LADY
Oh, my God!

PRESIDENT
Yikes!

The scary Martian talks.

The DOG, Rusty, WHIMPERS and hides behind the sofa.

FIRST LADY
(appalled)
I do not want that thing in my house.

PRESIDENT
We might have to. People are going to expect me to meet with them.

FIRST LADY
Well, they are not eating off the Van Buren china.

INT. MTV STUDIOS - DAY

Nathalie, Kessler, the makeup person, the cameraman and the Assistant Director are gaping at the studio monitor -- showing the Martian. Nathalie clutches Kessler, frightened. He puts his arm around her.

NATHALIE
Ugh... it's gross!

KESSLER
Don't forget, Nathalie, that we will look equally 'gross' to him.

Did you see that? He just copped a feel!

INT. CONFERENCE ROOM - DAY
Three easels hold charts. Chart #1 is a bad drawing of a Martian measured in centimeters. Chart #2 has photos of Martian flying saucers. Chart #3 is a drawing of Mars and Earth with connecting lines and vectors.

Professor Kessler speaks -- using a pointer.

From the limited information available, I've made three extrapolations. One: our Martian friend is a carbon-based life-form. Two: he breathes nitrogen and Three: the large cerebrum, here... (points) ... indicates telepathic potential.

Seated at the conference table are the President, Jerry, Generals Decker and Casey and DOCTOR ZEIGLER, a German linguistics expert.

JERRY
(disturbed)
You mean, they can read our thoughts?

KESSLER
Potentially, yes.

Decker scowls all the way through the meeting. He is not happy.

PRESIDENT
What about their intentions? Are they friendly?

KESSLER
Logic dictates that, given their extremely high level of technical development, they are an advanced culture -- therefore peaceful and enlightened. The human race, on the other hand, is a dangerously aggressive species. I suspect they have more to fear from us than we from them. Doctor?

Kessler stands to one side, as Zeigler crosses to where an elaborate computer is set up.

DOCTOR ZEIGLER
(German accent)
Thank you, Professor. For many years I have been refining a translating computer. I have broken down 227 phonemes, 48 diphthongs and 292 other sounds in a four point five octave range.

He flicks a switch and the video terminal blinks on.

DOCTOR ZEIGLER
I have run the Martian transmission through seven different linguistics programs. The results are not perfect but this may answer some of your questions.

He presses a button and the voice of the Martian Ambassador is heard. Doctor Zeigler adjusts some controls. Computer tapes revolve, and then a synthesized voice speaks.

SYNTHESIZED VOICE (V.O.)
... all green of skin, eight hundred centuries ago. Their bodily fluids include the birth of half-breeds.

PRESIDENT
(trying to take notes)
How many centuries ago?

The men try to puzzle out a meaning. Decker looks around -- confused and idignant.

SYNTHESIZED VOICE (V.O.)
For the fundamental truth is self-determination of the cosmos, for dark is the suede that mows like a harvest.

DECKER
What the hell does that mean?

Doctor Zeigler scratches his head. Everyone is baffled.

INT. CRUMMY MEETING HALL (LAS VEGAS) - DAY

An A.A. meeting is in progress. Twenty recovering alcoholics sit in folding chairs listening to Barbara, standing up front. They are all smoking cigarettes.

BARBARA
Hello. My name is Barbara.

ALCOHOLICS
Hello, Barbara!

BARBARA
I'm an alcoholic -- but I haven't had a drink in three months.

Everyone claps.

BARBARA
And I'm feeling so optimistic because of these Martians. We're not alone in the universe! And it's so perfect that it's happening at the beginning of a new millennium! Our planet was suffering, with the ozone and the rain forest and so many people unhappy in their lives...

(as she gathers her emotions)
And then the Martians heard our global karmic cry for help. People say they're ugly, but I think they're here to show us the way! They've come to save us!

She smiles triumphantly, tearfully. The crowd cheers.

EXT. BUS STOP (PERKINSVILLE) - DAY

At the bus stop, Billy-Glenn is dressed in the uniform of an army Private. He loads his duffel bag into the baggage hold. The Norris family and his girlfriend are seeing him off.

SUE-ANN
(embraces and kisses him)
Bye-bye, honey, bye-bye.

GIRL FRIEND
Be careful, baby -- don't get killed or anything.

BILLY-GLENN
Aww, ain't she cute?

GLENN

(tearful)
Now, you take good care, you hear?

BILLY-GLENN
I will, Mama.
(as he kisses his girl friend)
I gotta go. Adios.

ALL
'Bye! 'Bye now! 'Bye!

He gets on. The bus door closes and the bus drives away. The Norris family turn and start off down the road -- with Sue-Ann pushing GRANDMA's wheelchair.

RICHIE
(stupidly)
Well, he's gone for a while.

The Girl Friend glances at him, through tear-streaked eyes.

SUE-ANN
Oh, Richie, why can't you be more like your brother?

GLENN
We was lucky with Billy-Glenn. You can't expect the same luck twice.

Richie stares at the ground, gloomy. He's had this all his life.

GLENN
Hey, Richie, you wanna do something useful?

RICHIE
Yeah, sure Dad.

INT. MOVING TRUCK - DAY
Grandma is seat-belted into the passenger seat of the red pickup. Richie is very fond of his grandmother.

RICHIE
Say, Grandma, I bet you never thought you’d live to see Martians coming to Earth. Pretty far out, huh? But then just think of all the crazy stuff you’ve seen in your life. I bet people were scared when they invented the train.

GRANDMA
(insulted)
Boy, I ain’t that old!

(Typical of senility, Grandma will suddenly have lucid moments -- like this one.)

RICHIE
(startled)
Huh? You okay, Grandma?

She starts to slip away again.

GRANDMA
I want to get back to Slim. Slim and Muffy and Richie.

RICHIE
I’m Richie.

GRANDMA
I know. Richie was the best one.

Richie sighs and concentrates on driving.

63  INT. GRANDMA'S ROOM - DAY

The room -- which overlooks a garden peopled with geriatrics -- is cluttered with Grandma's memories -- including her favorite cat, Muffy -- now stuffed.

Grandma wheels herself over to the record player. The record on the turntable is "SLIM WHITMAN AND HIS SINGING GUITAR -- VOLUME TWO." She TURNS it ON.

RICHIE
Grandma, you gonna be all right?

Grandma, with trembling hands, drops the needle on the disc.

RICHIE
If you need anything -- any donuts or anything -- call me, okay?

Slim Whitman sings: "I'M CASTING MY LASSO TOWARDS THE SKY." Grandma closes her eyes and smiles blissfully.

He points at Jason -- who has his hand up.

JASON
If the Martians land, will the press have access? Can we do interviews?

JERRY
That depends. We need to establish contact, work out whatever communication problems, and set the parameters for talks. Then, I guess we'll just have to see how things develop. Next?

Jerry points to a JOURNALIST in Armani suit and glasses.

JOURNALIST
Do the Martians use money like we do?

JERRY
Money? I don't exactly know. Uh, here's the President.

The President comes on to the podium, and Jerry steps down.

PRESIDENT
Good morning. Nice to see you all again. I only have a few minutes for questions, so let's get started...

Many Journalists have their hands up. He points to an ASEXUAL-LOOKING WOMAN.

Do the Martians have two sexes like we do?

INT. BYRON'S CONDO (VEGAS) - KITCHEN - DAY

Wary but unafraid, Byron suddenly stops. The limo pulls up... and Art Land leans out, grinning charmlessly.

ART

Good evening, Byron... I see you're carless. You want a ride?

Byron raises an eyebrow.

INT. MOVING LIMOUSINE - DUSK

Art and Byron sit in back.

ART

Byron, I want to do you a favor. I owe you. I made a lot of money off your fight in Jamaica in '73.

BYRON

I’m glad somebody did.

ART

I know it's tough for athletes. You hit a certain age, opportunities dry up. So, here's the deal. There's a guy owes me money, needs a wake-up call. I want you to use that famous left hook.

BYRON

I used to fight in the ring.

ART

I know that -- but I'll pay you two grand. Soon as it's done, come to my office and I'll give you the cash.

Pahrump. It's in the Nevada desert.

DECKER

Sir, my reserve troops are on full alert. They can be there at 0800 hours.

He slams down the phone and leaps from the bed. He yanks a suit from the closet. Nathalie groggily turns over.

She hangs up and smiles -- pleased.

NATHALIE

Hey, hey, we're both going! It's Kick the crap out of 'em.

KESSLER
But this could all be a cultural misunderstanding!

TAFFY
Yeah! Maybe on Mars, doves mean war?

They all mull this over. Jerry Ross flicks channels on TV.

JERRY
Hey! Carl Sagan's on!

They all turn.

ON TV
Dr. Carl Sagan is being interviewed by Larry King.

CARL SAGAN (V.O.)
(on TV)
I believe it was a mistake.

LARRY KING (V.O.)
But they massacred all those people!

CARL SAGAN (V.O.)
That's right -- and it was a terrible tragedy. But if you review the footage, Larry, you'll see the Martians react adversely to the sound of people clapping.

LARRY KING (V.O.)
Clapping? You think it was the applause that set them off?

INTERCUT:

PRESIDENT
They did say 'We come in peace'...

CARL SAGAN (V.O.)
Yes, that could be the explanation.

(MORE)

CARL SAGAN (V.O.)
For us applause is a sign of approval, of approbation and support -- but to the Martians, it may be offensive -- a sign of aggression, if you will. Symbols are not universal. For example, among the hill tribes of New Guinea, if you smile it means you're sad, and if you frown, you're happy.

ON EVERYONE watching TV. Everyone is frowning.

EXT. CAESAR'S PALACE - DUSK
A newspaper vending machine gets loaded. The headline screams: "MARS TRAGEDY." Below this is a photo of Billy-Glenn holding the flag. The image has a mythic, heroic Iwo Jima quality.

INT. CAESAR'S PALACE - BAR - DUSK
At the bar, customers watch the bar TV -- which is showing footage of the Pahrump Massacre -- with commentary.

The volume from the fervent gambling is deafening. The Elderly Slots Lady is playing as usual. She is wearing a T-shirt displaying the "Iwo Jima" picture of Billy-Glenn and his flag, and the phrase "American Hero."

Byron, in gladiator costume, has his picture taken with three KOREAN BUSINESSMEN.

KOREAN MAN #1
Thank you thank you! You are greatest champ ever!

Number one left hook!

BYRON
Thanks. You're very kind.

The Koreans bow and hurry away.

Cindy passes by with a tray of drinks, sees Byron and grins.

CINDY
Isn't this great? I always get huge tips during national disasters!

Byron nods. Cindy goes. Byron looks at the madness surrounding him and shakes his head.

INT. WHITE HOUSE - RADIO ROOM - NIGHT

A small room of radio and satellite equipment. A nerdy TECHNICIAN with headphones sits at a transmitter. Next to him is another translating computer. Standing over him are the President and Professor Kessler.

KESSLER
The new computer is ready, Mister President.

Kessler presses a button -- and computer tapes turn.

TECHNICIAN
Ready to transmit.

PRESIDENT
Okay, let's do it, I know we're making the right decision...

The Technician presses a button. The President speaks into a microphone -- reading from a script.

PRESIDENT
This is the President of the United States.

EXT. SATELLITE DISH (MONTANA MOUNTAINS) - NIGHT

A large satellite dish turns slowly -- pointing at the sky. It gleams palely in the moonlight. Sounds of BEEPING.

PRESIDENT (V.O.)
I'm speaking to you in the hope that what happened earlier today in the Nevada desert was a cultural misunderstanding. There is no doubt that we two peoples have a great deal to offer one another. You must be as excited as we to find intelligent life in this solar system.
INT. RADIO ROOM - CLOSEUP ON PRESIDENT - NIGHT speaks into the microphone.

PRESIDENT
And, let me make it clear: you have nothing to fear from us. Our customs may be strange to you, but we mean no harm.

EXT. SATELLITE DISH (MONTANA MOUNTAINS) - NIGHT

PRESIDENT (V.O.)
So let us sit down together, in friendship...

INT. SPACESHIP - RADIO ROOM

In a high-tech chamber, opposite a futuristic radio, sits a nerdy Martian radio operator. He hears the message through his headphones and writes it down.

INT. SPACESHIP - SPECIMEN ROOM

Two Martian scientists are looking at the charred dove on a specimen table. Scientist #1 pokes at it with a thin, metal baton. They are freaked-out by it. The Martian radio operator passes by, holding a note. FOLLOW Martian radio operator. He goes through a door.

INT. SPACESHIP - SPECIMEN ROOM AND CONTROL ROOM

The Martian radio operator hurries past a row of giant glass eggs containing biological specimens from Earth: a cow, a giant squid, a pig, a sheep, a clown, a camel and Nathalie West in her underwear holding her chihuahua.

The Martian radio operator comes into the control room. The Martian leader is sitting, looking at "Miss May" in a copy of Playboy Magazine. He looks up.

EXT. LAND'S HOME (VEGAS) - NIGHT

The back yard is a gorgeous fortress. High walls surround a large pool which reflects blue light everywhere.

Barbara staggers around, eyes glazed. She has the face of someone who has seen the End.

She sees a whiskey bottle sitting on a table inside the house. She shudders, then goes in.
INT. SNYDER HOME - NIGHT

Art paces, speaking pompously into a dictaphone.

ART
When the investors fly in, I want a limo waiting for each of them!
And make sure every car is top-of-the-line, with leather interiors...

BARBARA (O.S.)
Art, are you still spinning your wheels on that cockamamie hotel?

He looks up.

BARBARA
Hello! Martians have attacked!
That was no misunderstanding! I was there! I saw it!

ART
Look, you're worried about yesterday -- I'm worried about tomorrow. Martians come to Earth... they need a place to stay like anybody else.

Barbara goes berserk. She shouts, impassioned.

BARBARA
God, maybe we should all be destroyed! The human race doesn't deserve to live!

She grabs the whiskey bottle and marches out. Art goes back to his dictation.

ART
(into dictaphone)
That reminds me. Stock every limo with a bottle of Dom.

INT. WHITE HOUSE - RADIO ROOM - LATE NIGHT

Professor Kessler and the nerdy Tech hover, exhausted, over the radio, waiting... when, suddenly, lights blink
-- and MARTIAN TALK comes out! Kessler perks up.

KESSLER
They're responding!

INT. OVAL OFFICE - LATE NIGHT

Jerry bursts in on the President, waving a note.

JERRY
A message from the Martians!

PRESIDENT Really?

JERRY
They've issued a formal apology!

PRESIDENT
This is great! Didn't I tell you this would happen?

JERRY
(reading)
The Martian Ambassador feels terrible, and asks permission to speak to Congress.

(looks up)
That's good isn't it?

PRESIDENT
You bet. It's a major victory for our administration.

INT. OPERATING THEATER - DAY

ON: body of MARTIAN killed in Nevada -- its brain ruptured. Kessler and three surgeons examine it.

KESSLER
Notice the highly developed cranial nerve system. This explains the unusual cerebral arteries. And we seem to have several glands here, beneath the optic chiasm. Very curious...

INT. MARTIAN OPERATING THEATER - SPACESHIP

Three Martian scientists are gathered around a futuristic chair. Our view is partially blocked -- but we can see Nathalie's body, in her underwear. Many tubes sprout out of her body. Another Martian passes by -- carrying a specimen jar filled with fluid. In the jar is Nathalie's head, alive, eyes looking around! The group of scientists part -- revealing a full view of Nathalie. Her body now has the head of her chihuahua!

Martian Scientist #1 attaches circuit grips to her toes. ELECTRICITY BUZZES through her. The CHIHUAHUA HEAD BARKS! NATHALIE'S HEAD in the jar SCREAMS!
EXT. V.A. CEMETERY (PERKINSVILLE) - MORNING

GLENN

Why'd it have to be him?

Glenn shakes his head, distraught.

STRANGER #1

Imagine... dying while fightin' for our flag.

STRANGER #2

There ain't many heroes.

Richie looks around. He whispers.

RICHIE

Who are these people?

NEW ANGLE

There are hundreds of onlookers and media -- there to see the "hero" buried.

INT. LOUISE'S APARTMENT (WASHINGTON) - KITCHEN - MORNING

Louise is making breakfast for Cedric and Neville -- who are playing a violent video game on TV in the living room. The PHONE RINGS. Louise picks it up.

LOUISE

Byron! Is everything all right? You still coming tomorrow?

INT. BYRON'S CONDO - BEDROOM - EARLY MORNING

Byron, in pajamas, is on the phone.

BYRON

Try and stop me. The plane gets in at four.

INTERCUT.

LOUISE
That's fine. The kids can't wait to see you.

BYRON
How about you?

LOUISE
(smiles)
I can think of worse things than seeing your ugly mug again.

BYRON
Kids there?

LOUISE
Yeah -- hold on.
(calls)
Cedric! Neville! Your dad's on the phone!

NEVILLE
No, me! Me!

They scramble into the kitchen. Neville gets there first.

NEVILLE
Hey, Dad!

BYRON
Who's that? Neville?

NEVILLE
Yeah.

BYRON
How's it going?

NEVILLE
Okay.

BYRON
You taking care of your mother and being a good boy?

NEVILLE
Yeah. We're going to the White House.

BYRON
You're going to the White House?

Cedric grabs the phone from his brother and pushes him away.

CEDRIC
Yeah -- tomorrow!

NEVILLE
Hey, give it back!

CEDRIC
It's a school thing -- like a tour.

BYRON
So, I guess this means you're still making it to school once in a while?

CEDRIC
(chuckles)
Yeah!

BYRON
Cedric? Gimme your mother again.

CEDRIC
Ma!

Louise wipes her hands and takes the phone.

LOUISE
What you wasting this phone time for? We're seeing you tomorrow!

BYRON
Yeah, I just want to say something to you 'cause I feel like saying it.

LOUISE
What's that?

BYRON
I love you.

LOUISE
I love you too, Byron -- now stop wasting money. I'll see you tomorrow.

She puts down the phone. Byron smiles.
118  EXT. NEWSSTAND AND CAPITOL HILL (WASHINGTON) - DAY

On the newsstand, the New York Post headline shouts: "MARTIANS TO ADDRESS CONGRESS."

On Capitol Hill, excited spectators wait eagerly.

SUPERIMPOSE CAPTION: "CAPITOL HILL, WASHINGTON, D.C. - MONDAY, MAY 15 - 11:07 AM."

Policemen patrol, keeping the spectators behind the barriers. One cop holds a sign saying: "NO BIRDS."
Cop #2 holds a sign saying: "NO APPLAUSE."

Suddenly a WHIRRING ABOVE! Everyone looks up. Some people start to clap -- then remember they shouldn't. They laugh and watch the flying saucer descend.

It makes a perfect landing on the Capitol grass. The spectators are thrilled.

Far away is a row of tanks. General Decker, angry, is sitting in one, staring into field glasses. A COLONEL is with him.

COLONEL
How come we can't get any closer?

DECKER
Because my goddamn hands are tied.
Just keep everybody on alert.

119  INT. HOUSE OF REPRESENTITIVES - DAY

The ancient, Southern SPEAKER OF THE HOUSE addresses Congress from the podium.

SPEAKER OF THE HOUSE
This is a proud day for all Americans -- and especially for my good friends in Tennessee's Fifth District. Now, if everybody would quiet down, I believe we're ready.

120  INT. OVAL OFFICE - DAY

President Dale, the First Lady, Taffy, Mitch (the Secret Serviceman) and Jerry Ross are watching a TV.

CONTINUED:

PRESIDENT
This is a hell of a photo-op.
Are you sure I shouldn't be there?

JERRY
Ehh, for some picky reason, the Secret Service don't want the Executive Branch and the Legislative Branch in the same place at the same time.

INT. HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES - DAY (SAME TIME)

SPEAKER OF THE HOUSE
The Martian Ambassador is going to say a few words. Come on up here, Mister Ambassador.

The Martian Ambassador walks down the aisle -- followed by his Martian guards. The Congressmen watch and wait with bated breath. He steps up to the podium -- filmed by a bank of TV cameras. Professor Kessler's eyes glitter expectantly. The Martian Ambassador taps the microphone. Then he reaches under his cloak. The Congressmen react alarmed. But the Martian Ambassador only pulls out a speech. The Congressmen laugh with relief. Then the Martian Ambassador turns his head to his men -- who are now ranged behind him. Turning back to face Congress, he pulls out a RAYGUN and starts FIRING! The Martian guards whip out WEAPONS and SHOOT in every direction. Congressmen dissolve! Kessler faces the Martian Ambassador -- pleading.

KESSLER
Mister Ambassador, please! What are you doing? This isn't logical!
This doesn't make any sense!

Whap! The Martian Ambassador clubs Kessler with his raygun. Kessler goes down. The Martians decimate Congress. Two Martians pick up the unconscious Kessler.

INT. OVAL OFFICE - DAY (SAME TIME)
The President and Jerry Ross stare at the carnage on TV.

JERRY
Oh no!

PRESIDENT
Not again!

Decker shouts into a mobile phone.

DECKER
Get in there! Get in there and take them out!

EXT. CAPITOL BUILDING - STREET AND SPACESHIP - DAY
Smoke comes out of the windows of the Capitol building.

NEW ANGLE
The Martians go up the ramp into the spaceship.

INT. RETIREMENT HOME - LOUNGE - DAY
Grandma and a group of old people are watching TV.

GRANDMA
They blew up Congress!

She laughs.

MOROSE OLD GUY
Least now we won't have gridlock.

INCREDI BLY OLD GUY
Hey, what happened to 'Baywatch'?

EXT. WASHINGTON - ANGLE ON DECKER - DAY in tank and troops.

DECKER
(into radio)
Quick -- open fire!

CONTINUED:

Soldiers SHOOT at the Martians. BULLETS BOUNCE OFF THEM. The door closes, the ramp retracts, the SPACESHIP WHIRS -- and ascends.

TANKS FIRE. SHELLS HIT the FLYING SPACESHIP and EXPLODE harmlessly. General Decker angrily shakes his fist.

DECKER
And stay out!!

The spaceship zooms away at high speed.

INT. BACK OF DONUT SHOP - DAY

Richie, holding a donut in one hand and a paper cup of coffee in the other, gapes at the TV. The Hispanic Lady, his co-worker, is behind him.

RICHIE
What did they do that for?

HISPANIC LADY
Maybe they don' like the earth people?

INT. WHITE HOUSE - WAR ROOM - DAY

The war room is a mass of activity. PHONES RING constantly. Military types push deployment symbols around the floor-map of the world. On a big wall map, lights indicate troop positions. Seated at the large round table are the Secretary of Defense, the Secretary of State, and Navy, Airforce, Marines and Army Chiefs, General Decker and Jerry Ross. The President takes his seat.

PRESIDENT
Hello, gentlemen. Thank you for coming at such short notice. It seems I owe you an apology, General.

DECKER
We all make mistakes, Mr. President.

PRESIDENT
Well, not anymore!

He bangs the table. He is a bit delirious.

PRESIDENT
We're gonna take charge of this thing!

DECKER
Excellent! I've prepared the order, sir.

He hands him a piece of paper. The President takes it.

What's this?

DECKER
Your executive order authorizing full use of our nuclear deterrent.

PRESIDENT
Are you out of your mind? I'm not gonna start a war.

DECKER
The war's already started! We gotta nuke 'em now. Right now!

PRESIDENT
General Decker, if you don't shut up, I will relieve you of your command.

DECKER
But, sir, if we don't retaliate hard, right now...

PRESIDENT
Shut up! Shut up! Shut up!

Decker is stunned. The President addresses the others.

PRESIDENT
Okay. Now, we've got to let the people know they still have two out of three branches of government working for them. That ain't bad! I want people to know the schools are still open, okay? I want people to know the garbage still gets picked up! I want a cop on every corner! Jerry? How soon can we go on air?

Jerry looks at his watch.

JERRY Uh...
INT. OVAL OFFICE - DAY

The screen is filled with the image of the Presidential Seal. The image is replaced by that of the President, soberly dressed, behind his Oval Office desk.

PRESIDENT (V.O.)
My fellow Americans. It is with a heavy heart that I speak to you this afternoon.

INT. LANDS HOME (LAS VEGAS) - KITCHEN - DAY

Barbara is packing a large backpack and two suitcases with food and supplies -- and watching TV.

PRESIDENT (V.O.)
(on TV)
As you know, earlier today, the Martian Ambassador and his confederates attacked and killed many of your representatives on Capitol Hill...

INT. WASHINGTON CLASSROOM - DAY

A class is watching TV -- supervised by an African-American teacher. Most of the kids are black or Hispanic, and clearly from the ghetto. Among them are Cedric and Neville.

PRESIDENT (V.O.)
(on TV)
We opened our hearts and minds to our Martian neighbors and this is how they have repaid us. Clearly, they have no love for humanity. So, the time for dialog is over. and I have decided to take the grave step of suspending diplomatic relations.

PUERTO RICAN GIRL
That'll show them, for blowing up Commerce!

NEVILLE

INT. MARTIAN SPACESHIP
Martians are watching a giant TV. They are fascinated by the Presidential Seal -- maybe because it's a bird.
Who knows?

INT. SPACESHIP - MARTIAN OPERATING THEATER
Six Martian scientists with weird tools work on two experiments. On one operating table is Professor Kessler. He has been completely dissected -- but all of his body parts are still alive. On another operating table is Nathalie's head -- now loosely attached to the body of the chihuahua.

Kessler opens his eyes and painfully looks around. He sees Nathalie.

KESSLER
Nathalie?
(beat)
Nathalie, is that you?

NATHALIE
Yes. How are you feeling?

KESSLER
Not terribly good, I'm afraid.

NATHALIE
Can I ask you a question?

KESSLER
Yes, of course.

NATHALIE
Were you flirting with me on the show? Because, if you were, I just want you to know -- I liked it.

KESSLER (pleased)
You did -- really? Because, you know, I've watched you on TV quite a bit and, uh, well, I've had something of a schoolboy crush on you for, oh gosh, ages.

She gives him a sexy smile.

EXT. WHITE HOUSE PARKING LOT - NIGHT

Jerry Ross comes out of the White House, carrying his briefcase. He is tired. His driver steps out and opens the limo door.

JERRY
(exhausted)
Man oh man, what a day... what a day!

Then Jerry sees something.

Standing outside the gates is a glamorous GIRL, with a big beehive hair-do, gazing at the White House. She wears an elegant and very sexy gown -- which has a faintly otherworldly quality.

Jerry crosses over to her.

JERRY
Hi. You interested in the White House? I work here. I'm the Press Secretary. My name's Jerry
Ross -- maybe you've heard of me?

The Girl looks at him, chewing gum.

JERRY
You wouldn't believe the pressure of my job. It's good to meet a new face.

The Girl shrugs prettily and adjusts her dress.

JERRY
Hey, are you doing anything? If you want, I could give you a personalized tour. Would you like that? The White House is quite enchanting after hours...

The Girl nods sexily. Jerry is enthralled, but trying to hide it.

JERRY
(under his breath)
Wow!

EXT. WHITE HOUSE - BACK ENTRANCE - NIGHT

Jerry and The Girl stand in the shadows of the Colonnade. He taps on the French doors.

A Secret Serviceman (MITCH) approaches.

JERRY
Hey, Mitch, it's me. Can you let me in?

MITCH
Oh hello, Mr. Ross. Sure. We're just a little nervous here, after what happened to Congress.

As he unlocks the door, Mitch casually checks out the Girl's body.

INT. WHITE HOUSE - CORRIDOR - NIGHT

Jerry and the Girl stroll along a gilded corridor of paintings. He leans close to her.

JERRY
Many great men and women have passed through here. And now we're passing through here. Feels good, don't it?

They turn a corner.

JERRY
You're very graceful. What's your name? Do you speak English? Are you on drugs? I know! You're from Sweden!

The Girl nods.

JERRY
I knew it! This is the Roosevelt Room. This is where they sometimes have state banquets.

JERRY (CONT'D)
It's a nice room. The King of Sweden came here once, I believe. Look, here's Thomas Jefferson -- he wrote the Constitution. And of course this is George Washington. Never told a lie. And here's Dwight D. Eisenhower.

They look at a smiling portrait of Dwight D. Eisenhower. Taffy passes by, eating a carton of ice cream.

TAFFY
Ah, the midnight tour...
(leans in to the Girl)
Make sure he wears a condom.

Taffy wanders away. Jerry pulls the Girl aside.

JERRY
Man, it sure is busy out here. Tell you what, there's a quieter room which is secret. The public doesn't know about it. You want to see it?

She nods, chewing. He reaches for a hidden door...

INT. KENNEDY ROOM - NIGHT
The door opens and Jerry ushers the Girl in and turns on soft lights. Inside is a bookcase, sofas and a tropical fish tank.

JERRY
Like it? We call this the Kennedy Room. Watch this.

Jerry goes to the bookcase and presses a secret button. The bookcase revolves into the wall, revealing a fully-stocked bar.

JERRY
Pretty nifty, huh? So, what'll you have?

The Girl is examining the fish tank. He peers at her through the glass.

JERRY
How about a Brandy Alexander? I was a bartender in college.

She smiles sexily. He fixes the drinks. She looks around the room, swaying sensuously. She is fascinated by a bronze statuette of a naked girl. The Girl compares her body with the statuette's. She starts unbuttoning her dress.

JERRY
Ah, getting comfortable I see. That's good.

He carries the drinks to the sofa. She takes them -- puts both on the floor -- and pulls him towards her. She presses her lips on his. They make out on the sofa.

Jerry comes up for air.

JERRY
Whew! You're terrific. But could you get that gum out of your mouth?

He puts his finger in her mouth.

She bites down hard.

Jerry screams in pain. She has bitten off his finger!

The Girl spits the finger out of her mouth. It lands in one of the glasses -- the liquid bubbles!

Jerry runs to the phone -- moaning. Panicked, he punches in 911 with his good hand.

The Girl is having trouble breathing. She swiftly picks up the bronze statuette, strides over, and whacks him on the head. Jerry is killed instantly. She drops the statuette and grabs desperately inside her purse and takes out a stick of blue gum. She frantically unwraps the stick of gum (which is bright blue) and pops it in her mouth. As she chews, her breathing returns to normal.

She scratches her head. Her hair is irritating her. So she rips at her hairline, and it peels off -- revealing, under the beehive, a giant brain. She is a Martian!

She takes a raygun out of her purse -- then rips off the bottom of her dress (so she can walk easier) -- and strides out.
INT. WHITE HOUSE - HALLWAY - NIGHT

The Martian Girl looks at a map on the wall of the interior of the White House, then heads off.

Half way down the hall, she breaks one of her heels -- and bends down to take off her shoes.

Behind her, a Secret Serviceman comes INTO VIEW. He takes off his dark glasses -- the better to admire her shapely rear end. Sensing something behind her, the Martian Girl peers under her armpit.

The Secret Serviceman reacts with shock to her face. She FIRES! He is blown across the room. He grabs at a nearby American flag. It tears as he slides, dead, to the floor.

The Martian Girl kicks off her other shoe -- which flies through the air and bounces off the Secret Serviceman's head!

INT. PRESIDENT'S BEDROOM - NIGHT

Quietly, the bedroom door opens and the Martian Girl steps in.

The President and the First Lady (her hair in curlers) are asleep. Their dog, Rusty, is asleep at the foot of the bed. The Martian Girl reacts with fear at the sight of the dog.

She touches the side of the large ruby ring on her finger. The ruby covering slides open revealing a small electronic eye.

The dog's nose quivers... then he wakes.

INT. MARTIAN COMMAND SHIP - SAME TIME

The Martian Leader, flanked by subordinates, watches a large crystal-ball-like monitor. It shows a fish-eye view of the President's bedroom.

ON MONITOR

the Martian Girl aims her RAYGUN at the sleeping President. RUSTY BARKS! The Martian Leader and his men spring back -- scared by the dog.
INT. PRESIDENT'S BEDROOM - SAME TIME

Rusty leaps at the Martian Girl who FIRES -- missing the President and the First Lady (the blast hits the bed between their bodies). Rusty fastens his jaws on her thigh.

The President and the First Lady wake up. She sees the Martian Girl and screams. He hits a button on the headboard. An ALARM WAILS.

The Martian Girl kicks the dog across the room -- a piece of rubber thigh in his mouth. She FIRES at him. Rusty is reduced to bones in an instant.

The First Lady ducks down under the bed, where she sees Rusty's steaming skull!

The Martian Girl is about to shoot the pajama'd President when WHAP! she's hit in the head by Rusty's skull -- thrown by the First Lady.

The President grabs the Martian Girl's gun-arm. They struggle.

Mitch bursts through the door.

The Martian Girl grabs the President and puts her raygun to his head. The ALARM STOPS sounding. The First Lady gets behind Mitch.

MITCH
(to Guards)
Don't shoot!

The Martian Girl pulls the President backwards towards a doorway and kicks it open. Mitch keeps his weapon trained on her.

INT. MARTIAN COMMAND SHIP

The Martians look at Mitch on the curved monitor.

INT. DRESSING ROOM - NIGHT

The Martian Girl and her hostage back into the room. There are closets and a covered bird cage. She keeps chewing. The Girl bumps into the bird cage. The cloth slips off -- revealing a small PARAKEET on a perch. Startled, it SQUAWKS. The Martian Girl jerks, alarmed, and SHOOTS the parakeet.

MITCH
Get down!

CONTINUED:

The President drops. Mitch SHOOTS the Martian Girl in the head. BLAM! Her brain explodes, splattering the wall. Her body hits the floor, twitches, then goes still. The President is covered in slime and brain gook.

PRESIDENT
Thanks, Mitch.

MITCH
It's my job.

INT. COMMAND SHIP

The globe monitor goes dark. The Martian Leader reacts with rage.

INT. MARTIAN LABORATORY

Nathalie and Kessler are on display shelves. Nathalie is still half-dog and Kessler is a tray of limbs and organs.

KESSLER
Did you feel that? The ship's changed course.

NATHALIE
I'm scared!

KESSLER
Oh, Nathalie, if only I could hold you in my arms!

NATHALIE
Oh, Donald...!

KESSLER
(frustrated)
I simply don't know what's going on anymore!

INT. WASHINGTON LABORATORY - DAY

Three DOCTORS and a nurse in hospital gowns are doing an autopsy on the Martian Girl. A LAB TECHNICIAN comes in, holding a specimen jar.

LAB TECHNICIAN
Excuse me, but you said you wanted to know as soon as we had an analysis of the chewing gum.

INT. MARTIAN COMMAND SHIP - BIG HALL

A large metal iris in the floor opens revealing a large globe. The globe ascends. On top of it stands the Martian Leader.

NEW ANGLE

The globe rises into a great hall -- lined with galleries, in which hundreds of Martian warriors are assembled. Two giant robots watch the globe ascend and stop in mid-air.

A light switches on inside the globe -- revealing on it a map of the earth. The warriors cheer!

The Leader launches into an impassioned speech. He waves his arms. The mob goes nuts. Martian flags are raised.

Everyone screeches back in unison. It's like a Nuremburg rally. The Leader makes a circle in the air with his arm. The warriors follow suit.

The Leader reaches under his cloak and brings out a flame -- which burns (not harming him) in the palm of his hand.

The warriors gasp! As the globe descends to the floor, the Leader theatrically touches the flame to the Earth Globe on which he is standing. The tiny planet erupts in flames.

Huge cheers!

C'mon, we need to get you to safety!

The President is on the phone -- with him are the First Lady and Taffy. THROUGH the window, behind them, a saucer is landing.

INT. WHITE HOUSE - HALLWAY INTERSECTION - DAY

The hallways are full of secret servicemen talking into their radios. Mitch, Secret Servicemen #1, #2 and #3, the President, First Lady and Taffy are running.

FIRST LADY
Shouldn't we go that way?

MITCH
Sorry, ma'am, there's a tour going through there.
INT. WHITE HOUSE - BLUE ROOM - DAY

A school tour is in progress. The female TOUR GUIDE addresses the high school teacher and his class -- including Cedric and Neville.

TOUR GUIDE
The Blue Room is often considered the most beautiful room in the White House. In fact it is often used by the President to receive guests.

INT. WHITE HOUSE - BLUE ROOM - DAY (SAME TIME)

Sound of RAY-GUN BLASTS. DOGS BARK. Glenn and Sue-Ann stop preparing their weapons.

SUE-ANN
What was that?

Glenn and Sue-Ann peer out the windows. Richie sees the truck keys on the table and grabs them. He opens the door.

BYRON
This is a short cut. The airstrip's on the other side -- and we're less likely to run into Martians.

RUDE GAMBLER
How do you know?

BYRON
Trust me. Come on -- let's go!

Barbara, Cindy and Tom Jones squeeze through the fence opening.

RUDE GAMBLER
Hey, just because you're dressed like Caesar doesn't mean you're a leader!

INT. OLD SIGN JUNKYARD - NIGHT

Sounds of WAR. Keeping their heads low, Byron, Barbara, Tom Jones, Cindy and the Rude Gambler weave their way through an extensive junkyard of old Las Vegas signs (a massive Silver Slipper, a giant, bulb-encrusted Aladdin's Lamp, etc.).

The sky is full of TRACER FIRE from distant Army ARTILLERY -- trying to shoot down the flying saucers.

BYRON
(to Tom Jones)
Tom, after we get to Tahoe, I want you to fly me to Washington, D.C.

TOM JONES
Why?

BYRON
My wife and kids are there.

TOM JONES
Look, I'm sorry, but even if we could make it, Washington will be a war-zone. We wouldn't last five minutes.

BYRON
You won't take me?

TOM JONES
It'd be suicide.

BYRON
Okay, then show me how to fly the plane. I'll go on my own.

Tom looks at him doubtfully.

The Rude Gambler runs away.

BARBARA
Where are you going?

ANOTHER PART OF SIGN JUNKYARD - NIGHT

The Rude Gambler runs past a giant fish and a bucking bronco sign.

RUDE GAMBLER
Assholes! Why didn't I stay in the hotel?!

He freezes. Less than ten feet away, a Martian is staring at him.

RUDE GAMBLER
Shit!

He glances around -- there's nowhere to run. He puts up his hands.

RUDE GAMBLER
Look, I surrender, okay? You understand what that means? Surrender?

The Martian doesn't move.

you want my watch?

He takes off his watch and offers it to the Martian.

RUDE GAMBLER
Take it, take it -- go on! It's a Rolex!

KAPOW! The Martian reduces him to a skeleton with one RAYGUN BLAST! His BONES CLATTER to the ground.

BLAM! The MARTIAN'S HEAD EXPLODES!

Pity I was too late.

TOM JONES
(not so sure)
Yeah.

Byron and Cindy appear.

BARBARA Look!

BYRON
What?

BARBARA
The airfield.

She points.

What music?

INT. WAR ROOM - NIGHT

Decker paces around the War Room, holding his pistol.

DECKER
Quiet! I can hear something.
Everybody quiet!

Everyone stops what they're doing and holds their breath. The PITTER-PATTER of TINY FEET becomes FAINTLY AUDIBLE. Then -- BOOM! An EXPLOSION BLOWS a HOLE through the WALL!

A PULSATING green ORB is tossed through the hole in the wall. It rolls, ominously, to a stop in the center of the room. Everybody ducks under chairs and tables. The Martian Leader and six Martian officers stride in. They cover the war room with their weapons. The Martian Leader walks over, picks up the orb and shakes it.

Decker gets up, a gun in each hand.

DECKER

(angry)

You think you can come over here and do whatever you want? Well, you don't know human beings!

He FIRES both PISTOLS at the Martians. The BULLETS BOUNCE off their body ARMOR. The Martian Leader barks an order.
Three Martians rush him -- grab him, disarm him and push him against the wall...

DECKER

We will never give up! We will fight you and fight you to the last man! We will never surrender!

The Martian Leader takes out a tiny little GUN. It looks like a Crackerjack toy. The Martian nervously steps away from Decker. The Martian Leader FIRES! A weird light emanates from the gun -- hits Decker and shrinks him down to three inches high!

The military, under the tables and behind chairs, watch, astonished, as DECKER runs, SQUEAKING across the floor, towards the Martian Leader. Decker shakes his little fists.

DECKER

Damn you to hell, you ugly
Martian peckerhead!

The Martian Leader steps on him!

Terrified, everyone runs for the doors. The Martians FIRE! The humans glow -- and drop. A Martian aims at the President. Mitch (his arm in a sling) throws himself in front of him and takes the fatal BLAST! The President steps forward. All fear has gone. He speaks from the heart.

PRESIDENT

Why are you doing this? Why?
Isn't the universe big enough for both of us? What is wrong with you people?

The Martian Leader holds up his hand to his troops. They lower their weapons and listen to the President.

CONTINUED: (2)

PRESIDENT
We could work together. Why be enemies? Just because we're different? Is that why? We could work together! Think how much we could do! Think how strong we would be! Earth and Mars together! There's nothing we couldn't accomplish! Think about it! Why destroy when you can create? We can have it all -- or we can smash it all -- which is better? Which is better? Why can't we settle our differences? Why can't we work things out? Why can't we just get along?

The Martian Leader seems impressed. He offers the President his hand. The President, surprised, shakes it. The Martian Leader's hand detaches from his wrist and scurries up the President's arm -- to his shoulder. (NOTE: the hand has a mechanical tail -- curled up like a scorpion's tail.)

PRESIDENT
What is that? What's going on?

The scorpion-tailed hand scurries over his shoulder. He tries to brush it off. Then the hand tenses its fingers -- the tail uncurls -- and jabs its sharp point into the President's back.

PRESIDENT
Ugh!

The sharp-pointed metal tail comes through the President's chest. He looks down, horrified. The spike-tail telescopes out of his chest!!! The President falls backwards, dead, onto the floor-map of the world. The spike-tail's tip flips open. A Martian flag snaps out. The Martian Leader and his troops look at the dead President with the Martian flag impaled in his chest. All is quiet.

INT. PICKUP - NIGHT

Richie and Grandma grin in triumph.

RICHIE
Okay, Grandma -- next stop the radio station!!

The town of Perkinsville burns behind them.

INT. HANGAR - NIGHT

WAR sounds are more DISTANT now. Byron, Tom Jones, Barbara and Cindy enter the dimly-lit hangar.

BARBARA
There it is!

Before them is a white twin-engined Cessna.

BYRON
Tom, get it started up.
(to Barbara)
You go with him. Cindy -- help me get the doors!

Tom and Barbara get into the plane. Byron and Cindy cross to the hangar doors.

INSERT - HAND

A hand puts a needle on to a record.

EXT. RADIO STATION - NIGHT

Sound of SLIM WHITMAN YODELING. Animated circles pulse out the radio tower -- representing radio waves.
INT. PLANE - COCKPIT - NIGHT

Tom Jones leaps into the pilot's seat and starts flicking switches on the instrument panel. Barbara watches him anxiously.

TOM JONES
Righto. I can fly this.

Tom Jones accidentally turns ON the RADIO -- which is playing the SLIM WHITMAN yodeling SONG. Barbara frowns.

TOM JONES
Who put that on?!

He TURNS OFF the RADIO.

INT. HANGAR - NIGHT

Byron and Cindy have trouble unlatching the doors.

CINDY
It's stuck!

BYRON
Let me see that!

The plane ENGINES COUGH into life. The propellers turn! Byron unhitches the complicated latch.

BYRON
That's it!

Cindy and Byron pull open the doors. On the runway, the Martian Ambassador is addressing a squad of fifty Martians. Cindy freezes.

BYRON
They haven't seen us! Quick! Get the doors open!

They slide open the doors.

INT. PLANE - COCKPIT - NIGHT

Tom Jones and Barbara gape at the Martians.

BARBARA
Oh, my God!

TOM
That's the Martian Ambassador!
INT. HANGAR - NIGHT

Byron looks at the Martians. An angry, violent rage is coming over him. His eyes burn. Cindy glances at him anxiously.

BYRON

Cindy, you go.

CINDY

What?

BYRON

I'm staying. I'll distract them. Soon as you get a chance, take off!

CINDY

What?

BYRON

Just do it! I'll draw them off.

He pushes her.

BYRON

Go! Go! Go!

She runs towards the plane. Byron glares at the Martians.

BYRON

I hate those fuckers!

Byron lopes out of the hangar towards the Martians.

INT. PLANE - COCKPIT - NIGHT

Tom and Barbara watch anxiously from the cockpit.

BARBARA

What's he doing?

TOM JONES

He's flipped!

Cindy appears in the cockpit.

CINDY

He's gonna draw them off so we can escape.

TOM JONES

We can't leave him!

CONTINUED:

CINDY
That's what he said!

BARBARA
Oh, God!

EXT. HANGAR - NIGHT
Byron marches towards the Martians.

BYRON
Hi, guys -- How ya doing?

The Martians turn to look at him and raise their rayguns.
He drops his ray-pistol on the ground.

BYRON
See? No weapon.

Byron jogs away from the hangar -- and puts up his fists.

BYRON
Come on! Come on! What are you -- a bunch of pussies?

The Martian Ambassador approaches him.

BYRON
Okay, Mister Ambassador...

He punches the Martian Ambassador in the head. The Martian Ambassador drops his raygun, but comes back and boxes Byron. Byron dodges and weaves -- then lands another hard left hook. The Martian Ambassador is dazed, but recovers.

Byron moves further away from the hangar.

The other Martians chatter in their weird language, and form a circle around the fighters.

NEW ANGLE - PLANE

taxis out of the hangar.

INT. MOVING COCKPIT - NIGHT

Tom Jones, Barbara and Cindy look devastated. They are horrified at the prospect of leaving Byron.

TOM JONES
What do we do?
EXT. AIRFIELD - NIGHT

Byron has led the Martians even further from the hangar. He boxes the Martian Ambassador and smashes his dome with a vicious uppercut. The Martian Ambassador dies - squealing. The other Martians are shocked. Three Martians move in on Byron. He knocks one down -- dodges another -- gets hit -- recovers -- knocks down another Martian... four more Martians join in. Byron fights furiously! Another five Martians join the fight. It's too much. Punching like a madman, he cannot stem the tide of Martians!

NEW ANGLE - PLANE

speeds along the runway and lifts off.

Byron is hit from all sides. Then the Martians swarm over him -- like ants on a carcass.

The plane rises into the sky.

INT. AIRBORNE PLANE - COCKPIT - NIGHT

Tom Jones, Barbara and Cindy stare out the window.

THEIR POV

INT. LOUISE'S APARTMENT - CLOSEUP - LOUISE - NIGHT

Tense, her eyes wide.

LOUISE
Something's happened.

Sounds of WAR OUTSIDE. In their barricaded apartment, Neville keeps lookout at the window, guns in hand. They look round at Louise.

LOUISE
(haunted)
Something's happened to Byron!

All the SPECIMENS slide off the shelves and SMASH on the floor. Kessler's head smashes and his organs are pulled from their life support tubes. The Martians shriek in their death-agonies.

Nathalie falls -- SMACK! -- and her head comes detached from its chihuahua body. Her head rolls next to his head.

KESSLER
Good-bye, darling, I wish things could have been different!

NATHALIE
So do I!

The Martian Leader's head explodes!

NATHALIE
Good-bye. I love you.

A line of people fill a dumpster with black plastic bags of garbage. Fires burn in the distance. No one is talking. The silence is extraordinary.

EXT. CAPITOL BUILDING (WASHINGTON) - DUSK

The sun sets over the burned-out city. On the steps of the half-destroyed Capitol building is a small crowd in the glare of TV lights.

Six Marines in crumpled, dirty uniforms stand behind Richie and Grandma Norris. They are lit by TV lights and being filmed by a student TV crew. In the crowd, watching them proudly, are a handful of survivors -- including Louise, Cedric and Neville, their guns stuck in their belts.

On the steps, holding two medals, is Taffy. Behind her are two elderly mailmen.

TAFFY
Florence Norris, I am proud to present you with the Congressional Medal of Honor. The highest decoration our nation can bestow.

She hangs the medal around Grandma's neck -- and kisses her on both cheeks.

GRANDMA
Thank you, dear.

Taffy moves along to face Richie. Richie looks at her. She's beautiful. She looks at him looking at her -- and blushes. Then she recovers herself and...

TAFFY
Richard Norris, on behalf of my parents -- who couldn't be here today -- for saving the world from the Martians, I hereby award you the Medal of Honor.

She puts the medal around his neck. And is about to kiss his cheek, but hesitates. She is very attracted to him, and it makes her shy.

RICHIE
You don't have to kiss me if you don't want.

TAFFY
I've got to.

She kisses him quickly on both cheeks.

RICHIE
I, uh, prepared a speech. Is that okay?

TAFFY
Sure. I think that's very appropriate.

RICHIE
Okay, uh...

Richie pulls out a crumpled piece of paper and hesitantly addresses the crowd and the camera.

RICHIE
Well, folks, I just wanna say... I didn't really... I mean, there's lots of people in the world did more than I have --

CUT TO:

LOUISE, CEDRIC AND NEVILLE

Their faces grim. They are thinking about Byron.

RICHIE
And they should be here now, getting a medal, too. So, uh, we made it -- but we almost didn't. It was close. And...

He glances at his speech.

RICHIE
... now we must rebuild. We must rebuild our cities, but maybe not the way they were before. Maybe instead of houses we should live in teepees -- it's better in a lot of ways.

People have trouble following what he is saying -- but they like it anyway! Taffy gazes at him, her eyes shining.

RICHIE
And the environment -- let's take care of it this time. And let's have a decent justice system which is fair. Then we won't need so many lawyers. And psychiatrists -- do they really help? If we get society right this time, we won't need 'em!

The crowd applauds!

RICHIE
And there's no need to cut military or government spending now because that's been taken care of!

The crowd cheers!

RICHIE
The future's gonna be great! Let's go for it! I guess that's all I have to say. Thank you.

He steps down. The crowd continues applauding.

RICHIE
(to Taffy)
Was that all right?

TAFFY
Yeah. Have you got a girl friend?

Richie looks at her, shy and excited.

ANGLE ON GRANDMA
looking at Richie and Taffy with love.

ANGLE ON CROWD
FAVORING Louise, Cedric and Neville.

WIDE ON WASHINGTON
-- in ruins.

PAN UP TO the night sky.

FADE OUT.
